JESS WILLARD KNOCKS MORRIS

Philadelphia, April 26.—During a discussion with Jeas Willard, world's champion pugilist, as to probable contenders for his title, Carl Morris's name was casually mentioned. Willard's eyes flashed and in a most emphatic manner he asserted:

"Bo you know he is the foulest boxer in the American ring today of any class? He has no merit. He cannot work the doesn't even know the rudiments of the game. He is big and strong and that lets him out. They say he is a glutton for punishment. Well, he is like all the reat, if he gets it in the right place. Any good man an outgame him."

EARLY OPENING CAUSES A LOSS

New York Club, Largest of Charles Ebbets, Brooklyn Magnate Believes Opening Should Be Prolonged.

Charley Ebbets has been pictured as a magnate with a taking way at the hox office by a good many scribes, and though be has a failing for the coin of the reain, he is no more susceptible to the music of the turnstile than the average man who runs a ball club.

But when Ebbets came out recently.

the in line for national preparedness is proven by the many activities of the club along that line.

When President Wilson severed diplomatic relations with Germany and later called the extra session of concress for the declaration of war, the club, through the board of governors, adopted resolutions expressing its hearty approval of the actions of the president along those lines and in the arming of American shipe.

It oledged its loyalty and support to the American government in the most prompt and vigorous action that could be taken to maintain the dignity of the United States and to protect the rights on the high seas and for the rights on the high seas and for the cliffs of the then existing situation, which was intolerable to all patriotic americans, and urging that in the assembling of congress in the extra session further legislation necessary to the same ends and to make thorough and adequate provision for the nanational defence be enacted.

A copy of the resolutions was forwarded to president Wilson, who acts and the provision for the manual and the provision for the manual and the provision for the manual defence be enacted.

A copy of the resolutions was forwarded to president Wilson, who acts that the statement that it was a source of great satisfaction to him to know that a club of the standing of the New York Athletic club, with more than 500s members, should place itself on record in such a manner.

Jeff Tesreau didn't have as much success in his efforts to wreck the system of the Houston & Texas Central railroad as he frequently had in wrecking the hopes of the managers of rival baseball clubs. Tesreau was yanked off the right of way of the interurban system by Phil Perritt just as there threstened to be a dissertous collision. Perritt expects some sort of a reward from the railroad company, as it was a little bit of a motor car, and if it had ever hit Tesreau it probably would have folded up like an opera hat.
